- Pick Your Device: A list of devices with checkboxes: "SentryKidsGPS", "SentryKidsGPSInventory", and "SentryDemo" (which is checked and highlighted in green). A "Refresh" button is below the list.
- For Your Information: A section titled "NEED AN UPDATE?" with text: "If your device has not reported in automatically, you can get a current location here! Just click on 'Select' and 'Submit' - the current location will update on the map and the location address will be displayed."
- Choose GPS Device: A section with a "Device:" label and a "Select" button.

On the right side of the interface is a "GPS Location" section featuring a map of North and South America. The map has "Map", "Satellite", and "Hybrid" view options. It shows several green location points across the continent. Below the map are navigation controls (directional arrows and zoom in/out buttons). At the bottom of the map area, it says "powered by Google" and "Map data ©2009 Europa Technologies - Terms of Use". Below the map is a "Start date:" field with "02/14/09" and a "Start Time:" field with "00" and "00" (representing hours and minutes), followed by a "Submit" button. A small note at the bottom right states: "The maximum display is 50 location points and/or alarms per device."

“Breadcrumbing”

The web portal can display up to the last 50 points of data provided by the SentryGPS ID. So even if the exact location can not be pinpointed a travel history can be determined.
